

Editorial Notes

We are happy to see that our journal is still functioning after 7 years of hard and difficult efforts to maintain its presence within the scientific community.

Special acknowledgements to the Editorial members who have hardly collaborated during the review process and who encouraged us to continue managing the journal.

In 2021, the journal of Hidden data mining and scientific knowledge discovery has got more experience in editing and publishing.

At present, we are looking new original submissions and works to include in the next seventh volume!

Consequently, authors are encouraged to submit their latest research results to the HDSKD journal: Hidden data mining and scientific knowledge discovery: A peer reviewed journal.

The criteria of selection are based on the blind review reports, which will lead to the acceptance or rejection of the scientific submission. The accepted formats are MS Word and PDF.

We also recall that the journal is a non-profit academic source of knowledge and does not permit any commercial use of the articles (There is no charge fees).

Respectfully
The Editorial Board